Talk Gives Dirksen Confidence Others Can't See Missiles Progress

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today he is confident the United States quickly will "move back into the ring row" in missiles and satellite development. But three other senators indicated no such confidence.

Dirksen, assistant Senate Republican leader, made his statement after a conference with Adm. Arthur W. Radford, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Dirksen declined to comment directly on the briefing he received yesterday from Radford.

U.S. Makes Progress

But the Illinois senator said he has reason to believe that the United States has made strides in the missile field not matched by the Soviets, despite their feat in propelling two satellites into space.

"We have many programs going, on which information has been withheld, that have attained amazing results," Dirksen said.

But three other senators, emerging from a separate seven-hour briefing at the Pentagon, did not echo Dirksen's optimistic statements.

Others Disagree

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas contended before the briefing that the United States has "not kept in step with the needs of our times."

Asked later if the top level conference with Defense Department officials had changed that opinion, he replied with an unqualified "no."

Johnson, Chairman Russell (D-Ga.) of the Armed Services Committee, and Sen. Bridges (R-N.H.), the committee's senior GOP member, underwent an extended briefing after lunching with Secretary of Defense McElroy.

Call for Coordinator

Brooks said the country needs a "top coordinator of all activities" in the scientific development of missiles and space vehicles. But he disagreed with suggestions that have been made for a cabinet level officer in charge of these.

Johnson and Russell agreed that they had received "a lot of technical information" in the briefing by successive teams of military scientists. Russell said he wants to assimilate the information and tie "a lot of odds and ends together" before reaching any conclusions.

Silent on Probe

Johnson declined to say until later this week whether a prepara-

Girard Defense Asks Acquittal as Japan Trial Ends

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—The Japanese manslaughter trial of GI William S. Girard ended today with a defense plea for acquittal on grounds that the Illinois soldier was "carrying out his due business" when he fired the shot that killed Mrs. Naka Sakai.

The three-judge district court said it would announce its verdict Nov. 19. The prosecution has asked that Girard be given five years in prison for the fatal shooting on an Army firing range last Jan. 30.

Presiding Judge Yuzo Kawachi is expected to rule also on Nov. 19 on a defense motion to throw the case out on the grounds that Japan lacks jurisdiction because Girard was on duty as an Army guard at the time.

There has been considerable speculation that the soldier, if convicted, would get a three-year sentence and that this would be suspended so he could return to the United States.

Belt Inventor Dies
STAMFORD, Conn. (AP)—Thomas Robins, 89, founder and former chairman of Hewitt-Robins Inc. and inventor of a heavy-duty belt conveyor for transporting coal, died yesterday.

A native of Highland Falls, N. Y., Robins founded the Robins Conveying Belt Co. in 1896. The firm merged with the Hewitt Rubber Co. in 1945.

During President Wilson's administration, Robins served as secretary of the naval consulting board. He also served at one time as head of the government's Bureau of Inventions.

Decision to Give Up Track Starts Ross on Career

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A 25-year career in the highly competitive world of radio involves a man in some difficult decisions.

So says Lanny Ross. And certainly he should know. One of radio's memorable singers, he is celebrating his 25th anniversary in the medium. At present he offers five and one-half hours weekly of song, conversation and disc spinning on CBS Radio's New York station, (WCBS, 9:05 a. m., Mondays through Saturdays.)

Many have forgotten that Ross was a great track star at Yale. Ross says there probably would not have been radio career at all if he had gone abroad as a member of the 1928 Olympic team.

It was one of those close decisions. A great quarter miler and holder of the AAU 300-yard indoor title, he was named to the Olympics team scheduled to sail for Europe on June 26. He also was leader and soloist of the Yale glee club, scheduled to sail for Europe on June 23.

"I went with the glee club, to the surprise of a good many people," he said. "I never regretted it."

Such a decision, he feels, is one reason why he still is heard on the air-waves while many a well-known singer of years past has faded from the public ear.

"I wanted to sing," he said, "and I had a bit of hard work to do. I wanted to be basically well-grounded as a professional singer.

"Television has 10 times the impact of radio—but it has 10 times the problems and 20 times the cost. These two mediums have not destroyed one another. They've learned to live together. If asked which I'd rather live with, I think the proof is in the fact that I've had 25 years in radio."

Today, there are many quick victories over disease.

Each might be described as a crisis that didn't quite happen—thanks to today's superior medicinal agents.

Modern medicines prescribed by your physician score amazing triumphs over diseases which, only a decade ago, were almost certain to become dangerously serious.

Present-day pharmaceuticals, such as the antibiotics, require complex equipment, intricate controls and highly skilled technicians for production. Although somewhat higher in cost, they actually are an investment in economy. They effect an earlier cure and cut down expensive sick-bed time.

We are staffed and equipped to fill your doctor's prescriptions promptly at prices that are fair.

If you have that basic training, you can change and develop your style. Some make a hit with a particular style for a time, but it's difficult to survive without the basic hard work."

Luck and the help of friends play an important part too, said Ross. Perhaps there was an element of luck in a 1931 decision of his.

He was among a group of young hopefuls lined up for the cast of a new musical, "The Americana Revue," that year. But he also was doing a 15-minute program in the shaky young medium of radio—and consequently appearing late for rehearsals. The producer warned him to choose either the show or radio.

"I chose radio," said Ross. "The show ran a year and a half on Broadway. But I've run 25 years on radio."

In the late 1930s, after he was established as a radio singing star, he made a few pictures in Hollywood. "I decided to leave Hollywood," he recalled, "and I did. Perhaps it was a bad decision. But I wanted to sing. In any case, you don't just walk out on Hollywood and ever go back."

After World War II, in which he served as a major in the southwest Pacific, he returned to radio and the new challenge of television. In 1949 he starred on one of the first regular TV variety shows—and then concentrated on radio.

"When television first came in," he said, "radio people talked on television. I think that period has passed and I wouldn't be surprised to hear an increasing number of TV people talking about radio."

NO PLACE FOR CRUELTY

No one who accepts the benefits of modern medicine can in good conscience object categorically to animal experimentation. For much of what we know about the prevention and treatment of disease is the result of experiments on animals.

The other side of the coin is that needless experiments, and inhumanity in the use of experimental animals, cannot be condoned. Here, as the British have realized for many years, is the crux of the matter.

This is a touchy question. It is not made any less so by the fact that there are extremists on both sides—those who advocate animal experimentation without limit, and those who insist that there should be none at all.

The former, in their zeal to defend whatever science chooses to do, sometimes forget considerations of humanity and respect for life. Those at the other end of the spectrum are inclined to ignore the fact that animal experimentation has played a major role in relieving mankind's burden of agony.

It would be ridiculous to attempt a fair analysis of these opposing views in this space. It can be suggested, however, that cruelty—and, what is much more common, a certain callousness to animal pain—have no respectable place in the laboratory. Kindness and a decent regard for the sufferings of dumb animals are needed even in the lofty world of science.

After a year's study, a National Safety Council committee reports that it has not been proved that increasing horsepower is a major cause of the rising traffic toll. Not the horsepower, but the way drivers use it.

BULLS VS. BEARS

The stock market, after the longest advance in history, has been trending downward for some time. Recently it went into a couple of very sharp tailspins, with losses in stock values running into the several billions.

Outside observers watching this activity admitted to some puzzlement. They know that numerous factors in the business picture give cause for concern. Yet the general level of the economy remains amazingly high, and the market's bearish outlook seemed extreme.

Evidently market operators themselves at last began to think maybe the gloom was getting too thick. In a rocket-like upward spurt that hasn't been matched since November, 1929, the market shot back to higher levels and in a single day added $7.2 billion to the worth of listed stocks.

Many an American wishes he could make as good a recovery any Monday morning.

A youngster who is able to retain his self control even under the lash of unwarranted abuse has a bright future. He may become a baseball umpire—or possibly a cabinet officer.

GETTING AND SPENDING

It was more than a century ago that William Wordsworth wrote these lines that speak clearly to men in our time:

"The world is too much with us; late and soon,

Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers . . ."

It may well be that the words are true now, as applied to U. S. society, than they were of English society in the first half of the 19th century. Those critics who have said that our society is materialistic have been uncomfortably close to the truth, though the whole truth does show us in a better light.

It was the human waste that disturbed Wordsworth and that should in turn disturb us all—the extravagant sacrifice of our powers of mind and spirit for the sake of acquiring and using material things. Certainly there is value in material well-being, in creature comforts and swift transportation and all the other things our technology makes possible. But it would be a

These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
WHAT WE DON'T KNOW

Often we are told that this is One World because time and space have grown together, sort of, and people can understand each other better because they see each other on television and all that kind of thing. The fact is that peoples do not understand each other at all. The forms of government, usual in the Western world, have changed so since World War I and their varieties have so increased that it is not surprising that what many take for granted is not true at all. As a matter of fact, little can be taken for granted at a time when there is discussion about making the House of Lords into a United States Senate with female members.

For instance, a reader from Glens Falls, New York writes:

"The Post-Standard of Oct. 18 tells us that the British Prime Minister is coming next week to discuss some rather important matters with our President. What I cannot understand is why the P.M. has to come to so discuss when his boss is right here right now, who, it would seem, being the boss, should be able to enlighten the President on all points, on which he needs enlightenment . . ."

Of course, the Queen is literally not the Prime Minister's boss. His boss is Parliament. True, the Queen appoints him ceremonially; but it would be revolutionary if the Queen did not appoint the choice of the majority in the House of Commons. What is more, the Queen would not be authorized to discuss political questions with the President; that would be the function of the Prime Minister or the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. The Queen would not overstep her bounds. Edward VIII held opinions of his own and therefore he now lives at the Waldorf Astoria in New York.

Let us turn to an area where errors of this sort can be very costly: that is in our misunderstanding of the Soviet Russian system. Soviet Russia has a President, too. His title is Chairman of the Presidium of the Supreme Soviet U.S.S.R. But he has none of the constitutional authority of the President of the United States. He too is a ceremonial official of no political significance. There is also a Prime Minister in Soviet Russia but he has none of the authority of the British Prime Minister or even the French. He is at the head of the administration but is one of many as to policy. He is subordinate to the Presidium of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union. But the head of the Presidium is its Secretary-General or First Secretary.

Marshal Bulganin is the Prime Minister of Soviet Russia but he is subordinate to Nikita Khrushchev. On the other hand, in Yugoslavia, also a Communist country, Tito Broz is President and possesses absolute power.

The system varies in different countries, but in all forms of government, there must be a center of power, a place where authority is clear cut beyond question. In the United States, there is often a confusion due to the nature of our written Constitution which centers authority in the Congress and responsibility in the Executive. The Supreme Court has extended its prerogatives over both branches of government and there have been periods when the President became more powerful than the Congress and vice versa. The system of checks and balances does not always work out absolutely.

Continental Europe has faced the problem of the abolition of the monarchy in many countries since the French Revolution by either a profusion of political parties or by a single dictatorial party. The really passing problem in all European countries has been to discover a formula for stability without military dictatorship. The fear of Napoleonism has kept France in political confusion since 1815 and there seems to be no solution in sight. Soviet Russian political forms tend toward Czarism no matter what efforts are made in contrary directions. "Democratic Centralism," which they call their form of government, must ultimately lead to dictatorship and the struggle, since Stalin's death, has been over whether a triumvirate, an oligarchy or an individual should be the dictatorship. Czarism requires an autocrat; Russian Communism requires a dictator.

Birthmarks Are Treated
Or Masked at Early Age
BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Written for NEA Service

Mrs. W. has recently asked about the cause of a birthmark on a baby. She also wants to know whether if the mark is a red spot on the face it will disappear in time.

I think that it is safe to say that the cause of birthmarks is not known. Whether the red spot will disappear or not is impossible to say at a distance. Some birthmarks do fade as the child grows older, and if the mark is the kind which is likely to fade and is not large, perhaps nothing need be done.

However, the face is the conspicuous part of the body (and will not be covered with hair unless the child is a boy and grows a mustache or beard later on) so that Mrs. W. and others like her should obtain expert advice on the blemish right away.

BIRTHMARKS come in several shapes and locations. There is, for example, the small, hairy birthmark. Some of these can, and should be, treated by an electric needle. This not only removes the hair but clears up the nevus (birthmark). Some varieties of birthmark are best removed surgically.

One common kind of nevus is the "strawberry" birthmark. This is made up of enlarged blood vessels which are raised above the skin level and which are soft and spongy. Such nevi are present at birth. If located on some inconspicuous part of the body which is generally covered by clothes, perhaps nothing at all is needed. On the other hand, if the strawberry mark is on the face or some other portion of the body which interferes with appearance, radium X-ray treatments may be successfully used.

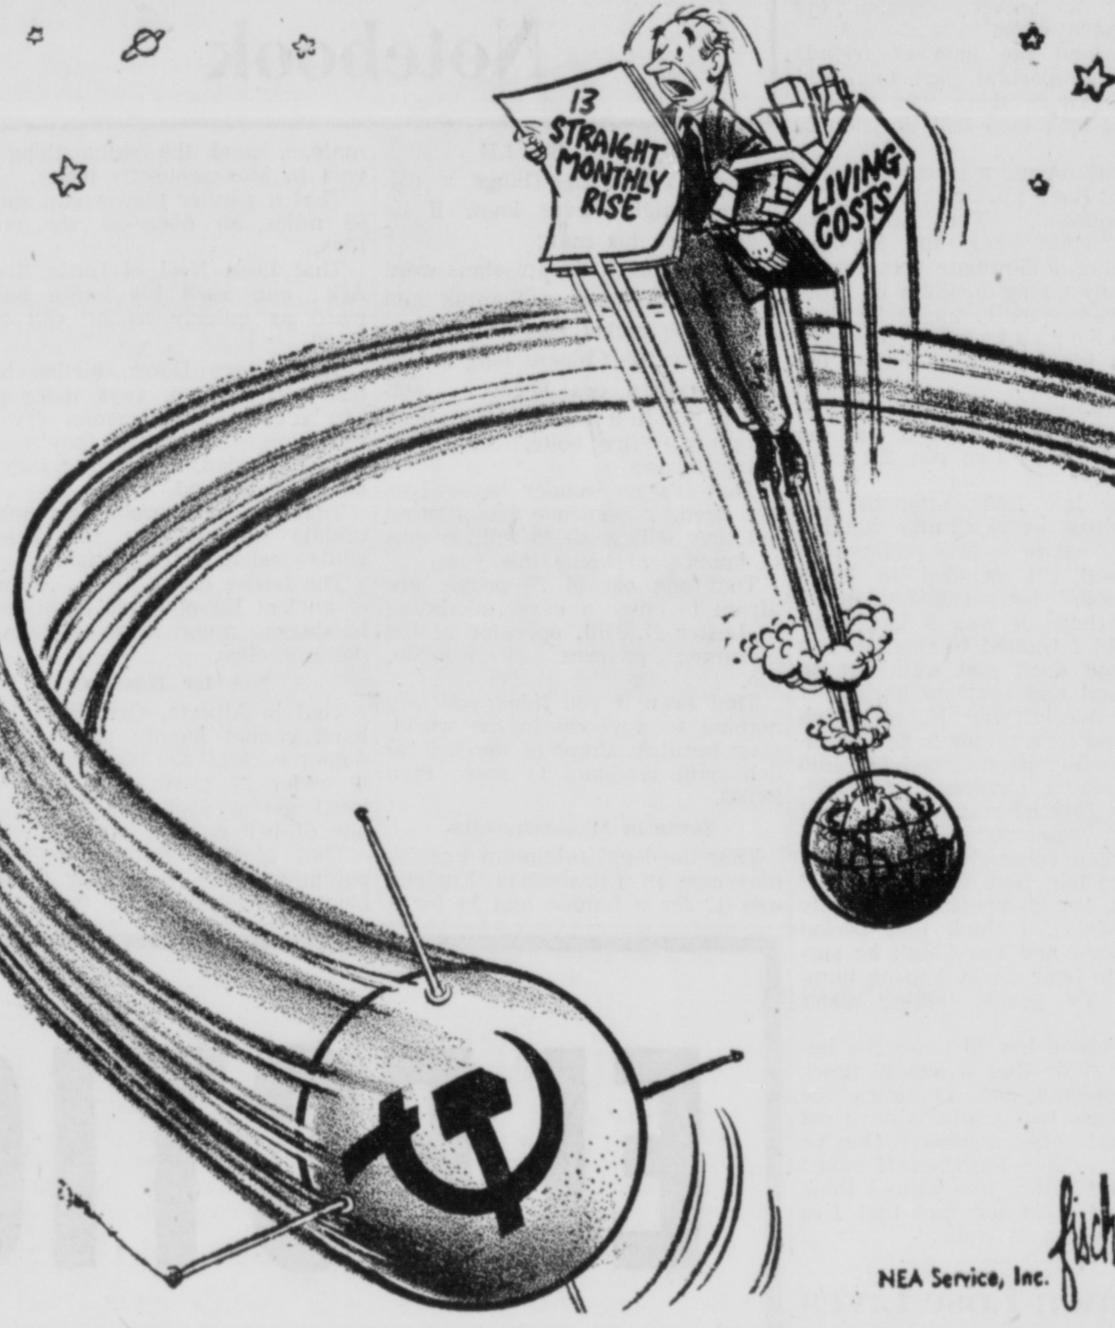

Another, made up of blood vessels, is irregularly shaped and slightly raised above the normal surrounding skin. It is sometimes called a "spider" nevus because the blood vessels at the center look like the body of a spider, while the smaller ones passing outward resemble the legs.

The treatment for a birthmark depends on its location, size and nature. Sometimes for one reason or another, medical or surgical treatment is not advisable. However, it is often possible to cover a birthmark with a kind of cream which resembles the color of the normal skin. Preparations for this purpose are on the market and if medically desirable the physician can advise what to obtain and where to get it.

grave mistake to let such values wholly overshadow the deep, abiding powers of spirit and intellect.

One disgruntled homeowner swears he's going to dig up his lawn and plant weeds just to see if the contrary stuff will grow where it thinks it's wanted.

WASHINGTON, (NEA)—The next visit of Queen Elizabeth II to America — already being planned—is to dedicate the St. Lawrence Seaway.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd let it be known here that he would like to have the Queen tour the Great Lakes, then go on to Chicago and the West Coast on a grand tour.

With seaway construction nearly completed after three years of work, the new 27-foot channel is fully expected to be ready for business when navigation opens in the spring of 1959.

The project is the largest international public works in the world. The seaway itself will cost an estimated 425 million dollars. Hydro-electric power development will cost another 400 million dollars, with everything completed.

Canada is carrying the largest share. Its St. Lawrence Seaway Authority under Lionel Chevrier will spend 285 million dollars.

The U. S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp., under Administrator Lewis G. Castle, has a 105-million-dollar Treasury bond issue to cover the American costs. Contracts for 92 million dollars have been let so far.

Actual construction is under the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers, Maj. Gen. Charles G. Holle in charge.

ON THE POWER development, 370 million dollars' worth of contracts have been let to date. This cost will be divided about equally between the Power Authority of the State of New York and the Hydroelectric Power Commission of Ontario.

Just above Montreal, the 150-million-dollar St. Lawrence power dam is cut in two by the international boundary. This dam is 3,200 feet long, with an 87-foot water fall. New York is building the south half, Ontario the north.

Each half will develop 940,000 kilowatts of electric energy.

This makes it second in capacity to only Grand Coulee Dam. But to make this St. Lawrence development possible, two other dams are being built by New York at Long Sault and Iroquois.

The major half will be self-supporting and self-liquidating within 50 years.

E. Reece Harrill, comptroller of the Development Corp., is chairman of the U. S. tolls committee.

The expectation is that there will be plenty of new traffic on the Great Lakes to pay whatever the tolls are. H. C. Brockel, Milwaukee's port director, predicts that five U. S. and 30 foreign flag lines will be carrying 50 million tons of cargo over the St. Lawrence Seaway, with 500 sailings a year. That will be all the traffic the Welland Canal can handle.

The major half will be self-supporting and self-liquidating within 50 years.

With most of the concrete poured on the U. S. side before winter sets in, the work will be mostly excavation. Actually, excavation goes better in winter, when the ground is frozen and there's no mud.

Work on the U. S. side is concentrated at six sites. They are the 10-mile Long Sault canal, the Dwight D. Eisenhower and Grass River locks—768 feet long and 80 feet wide, the Messena, N. Y., intake, Long Sault dam and the power dam.

The main Canadian works are stretched over 348 miles. They include deepening the Welland Canal, which is being done in winter when there is no traffic; dredging a 30-foot channel through Lake St. Francis; building new channels and locks above Montreal.

Westinghouse Wins Test of '58 Washers!

Monday Night, Nov. 4th "Studio One" Sand Test Proves Again:

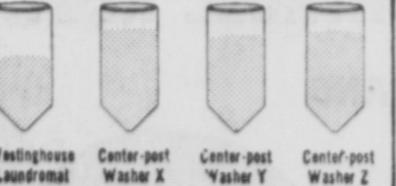

REVOLVING AGITATOR LAUNDROMAT Washes Cleaner, Rinses Better, Cleans Itself!

In a dramatic test performed before a live studio audience, the Westinghouse Laundromat proved once again that it still holds the world's washing championship.

Two cups of dirty sand to represent everyday soil were dumped on towels in the Laundromat® Automatic Washer and in three other well-known '58 automatic washers. At the end of their washing cycles not a grain of sand remained in the Laundromat's towels or in the machine either. Towels in the other washers were streaked with sand and there was also sand left in the machines. What's more, the Laundromat did this cleaner job with gallons less water.

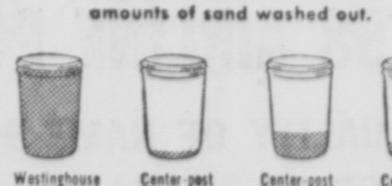

LAUNDROMAT SAVES GALLONS OF WATER

Diagrams below show relative amounts of water used.

LAUNDROMAT ALONE WASHES OUT ALL THE SAND

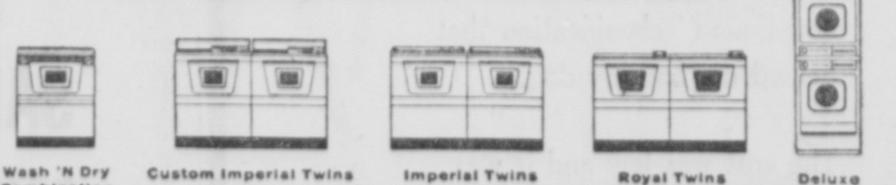

Diagrams below show relative amounts of sand washed out.

HERE'S WHY THE REVOLVING AGITATOR LAUNDROMAT WINS THE SAND TEST!

In the Laundromat, clothes go inside Revolving Agitator that lifts, turns, plunges them 50 times a minute, washes each piece equally well all the time. Lift-Away rinsing drains dirty wash water away from clothes—never back through them.

Utah More Het Up Over Race Of Men, Horses

ROOSEVELT, Utah (UPI)—The 18,000-mile-per-hour Spuntik and Muttnick satellites may have the rest of the world standing on its ear, but this remote eastern Utah ranching area is more hot up about a race between men and horses.

They are arguing whether man can beat Dobbins over the 168 miles from Salt Lake City, where the race will start Nov. 15.

No Handicaps

Two horses, with riders, will compete against two runners. There will be no handicap figuring, nor allowed time-outs for eating and resting. It isn't a relay, either. Each contestant must travel the full distance.

If your daily heel and toe stint four blocks to the bus and back leaves you bushed, track coach Clarence Robinson of Brigham Young University has a surprise for you. He is advising the mar-thon runners, and he says the meat-and-potato burners (men) will beat the hay-burners (horses). He says the men should average 5 miles per hour and finish in 30 to 36 hours.

A gasoline burner (auto) can make the mountainous journey in 3 hours on about 10 gallons.

Distance Favors Man

Robinson says under 75 miles the horse probably could win. But beyond that the advantage leans toward homo sapiens, who has greater recuperative powers. Robinson also points out man can take concentrated food and drink while traveling. Dobbins has to stop to put on the feed bag—and it takes time to grub up a bale of hay.

The marathoners are Shim Bok Suk, a Korean marathon champion, and Albert Ray of New York City, both students at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

Singer, Wife to Split

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Singer Allan Jones and his wife of 21 years say they hope to work out a quick divorce so he will be free to marry a shoe fortune heiress.

Jones told reporters yesterday that he and Mary Florsheim Pickering, 37, are "in love and want to get married." His present wife is former actress Irene Hervey.

U. S. Too Worked Up: Wilson

Former Defense Head Still Relaxed About Satellites

By JAMES MARLOW

AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Charles E. Wilson, former secretary of defense, is still pretty relaxed about the thought of the Russians sending satellites into outer space that they were studying earth satellites and spaceships?

Wilson: "I like to try to get my feet on—you know, down to earth. I have enough problems on earth."

Question: "Is there such a study under way at the present time?"

Wilson: "In this spaceship business."

Question: "Forrestal wrote about it. There was a study in 1948. Has it been discontinued or is it still under way?"

Wilson: "You are going back too far for me. I don't know of any such study."

Question: "Well, there have been recent published reports that the Russians have given priority to the establishment of a space satellite. Are you concerned that they will beat us in the air with it?"

Prefer Reds on Moon

Wilson: "I would not care if they did."

Question: "You really would like to see the moon first?"

Wilson: "I would rather they go off to the moon or some other place than come over here."

Harriman Attends R. L. Gerry Funeral

DELHI (AP)—A funeral service for Robert L. Gerry, millionaire land owner and member of a prominent New England and New York family, was held yesterday in St. James Episcopal Church at nearby Lake Delaware.

Gerry, who was 80, died at Lake Delaware last Thursday a few hours after his brother, a former U. S. Sen. Peter G. Gerry, had died in Providence, R. I.

Gov. and Mrs. Harriman and Mr. and Mrs. E. Roland Harriman were among those who attended the funeral. Mrs. Robert Gerry is a sister of the Harriman brothers.

Death Was Accidental

ROCHESTER (AP)—The death of Frederick Kister, 75, who was struck and killed by an automobile Sunday, has been ruled accidental.

Monroe County Coroner Richard A. Leonardo issued a certificate of accidental death yesterday. He said he withheld it until after an autopsy because of Kister's death.

Battle Shaping Up in Congress On Farm Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Battle lines were forming this week for an impending fight in the next session of Congress over federal farm programs.

The National Milk Producers Federation started the pre-session maneuvering at its annual convention at Cincinnati this week. Other farm organizations will follow with similar meetings in the weeks ahead.

New Anti-Benson Critics

These meetings will be held at a time when farm income is lagging behind that of other elements of the economy and when farm policies and programs of the Eisenhower administration are under attack. There are renewed demands from critics that Secretary of Agriculture Benson resign.

The Milk Producers Federation, like several of its sister farm organizations, is dissatisfied with government milk programs. It is expected to make a new demand for "self-help" program that would permit the dairy industry to handle its own problems of production adjustments and surplus disposal.

The National Grange will hold its convention at Colorado Springs Nov. 11-20. The grange wants to replace administration programs for major crops with what it calls a multiple price system. Under this, domestically consumed portions of crops would be supported at a relatively high price. Additional supplies would be allowed to seek whatever price they could command in world markets as well as in supplemental uses. In the past the administration has opposed such a program.

Backs Administration

The American Farm Bureau Federation will hold its convention in Chicago Dec. 8-12. It is the only major farm group that has backed the contention of the administration that the government should withdraw further from trying to control production and to support farm prices.

The newest of the national farm organizations—the National Conference of Commodity Organizations—will hold its third meeting of the year here Dec. 11 in an attempt to formulate recommendations for new farm programs. It is composed of more than 30 commodity organizations which have expressed dissatisfaction with the present programs.

Troops Guard Harvest

SANTIAGO DE CUBA—A record coffee harvest in Cuba's easternmost Oriente province is progressing rapidly. All of the crop is expected to be garnered by the end of November. The harvesting is proceeding under the watchful eyes of Cuban troops. But there has been no interference with the work by supporters of rebel leader Fidel Castro, who is hiding out in the Sierra Maestra mountains bordering the coffee-growing lands.

Mayer Trailing in TV Quiz Show, 17-10

NEW YORK (AP) — When David Mayer returns next week to NBC-TV's "Twenty-One" quiz he will be ahead $45,000 but on the short end.

Paul Bain, also of New York City, took the lead over Mayer last night in questions on bridges and the theater.

Mayer, 36-year-old head of his own consumer research firm, missed a nine-point question on the Rialto Bridge of Italy. Bain, a legal assistant and student of music, had a chance later to stop the game and become the winner. Unaware that he was ahead, he chose to continue and time ran out before the game was completed.

Earlier, Mayer boosted his winnings by $10,500 when he defeated Mrs. Nelle Hurley, of New York, a clinical psychologist. Mayer defeated her by the maximum score of 21-0 in questions on World War II and mythology.

TB FIGHT GOES ON—WITH YOUR HELP—Shown above are this year's Christmas Seals. They are the 51st edition by the National Tuberculosis Association in the continuing fight against TB. The seals are printed in four colors, with Santa Claus looking out of a red ball, and the child out of a silvery one. The NTA reports that there are 100,000 new cases of the disease each year and that the annual cost of prevention, treatment and compensation amounts to 725 million dollars. Most of this money comes from taxes. The NTA slogan this year is, "No one is safe from tuberculosis until all are safe."

eight inches tall—marked plum, apricot, pear, cherry and apple. The plum seedling didn't grow and the apple tree was barren. But Mendelsohn figures he got the last laugh. His 9-year-old son took some peaches from what was supposed to be the apricot tree the other day—and won first prize at the Montgomery County fair.

Truck With Shells Snarls Rush Traffic

NEW YORK (AP)—A trailer-truck carrying 16 tons of anti-aircraft shells struck an overpass in Forest Hills, Queens, last night, snarling rush hour traffic for two hours on Interborough Parkway.

The driver, Sidney J. Akens, 47, of Genesee, N. Y., told police he reported not dangerous.

made a wrong turn and found himself on the parkway, which is barred to commercial traffic. The upper part of his truck was crushed by the overpass.

Akens said he was delivering 232 cases of Army shells to the Seneca Ordnance Depot at Seneca, from Montauk.

The shells, without fuses, were

Pack 19 Holds Halloween Party

Ghosts walked, spacemen flew about, characters out of history paraded before the judges at the monthly meeting of Cub Pack 19, sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign War's Post 1386 of Kingston.

The occasions were the annual Halloween parties, with costume and pumpkin judging, old-fashioned Halloween games, and a Hall of Horrors completing the program. The entire program was planned and executed by the den chiefs of Pack 19.

Other Highlights

Other highlights of the evening's programs were the induction of Joseph Ingarral and Edward Tomczyk into membership of Pack 19, the attainment of the Webelos rank by the Cub Scout John Quick of Den 5, and an illustrated talk by the cubmaster on the subject of blasting caps and the danger of handling them.

Flag ceremonies were in charge of Dens 3 and 4, and opened each pack meeting.

Community Concert Band to Appear Here On Veterans' Day

The Kingston Community Concert Band will present a concert of patriotic music at the Municipal Auditorium Monday, Nov. 11 at 8 p. m. in conjunction with a memorial service for all veterans.

Marlin Morrette will conduct the band.

The appearance of the band is through the courtesy of Local 215, AF of L, and is made possible by a grant from the transcription fund of the Musicians' Union.

A memorial service, planned by Howard Shurter of the Veterans Administration Office, will also be held.

Public is cordially invited to attend this event.

Music Society to Meet

The November meeting of the Musical Society of Kingston will be held at the home of Mrs. Henry Milligan on Wednesday, Nov. 13 at 8:15 p. m.

The meeting opens this season's programs of which the theme will be "Music in Our Lives."

Music of the old masters, and music of composers most often requested by members of the group, will be performed during the year including, as well, compositions most preferred by the various members.

For each program, the related arts of the period of that composer will be stressed.

Music by Mozart will be featured this month. Mrs. William Wood and Mrs. LeRoy Vogt are co-chairmen of the program.

Mothers' Club Holds Party

Mothers' Club of Emma Weyant School sponsored a Hallowe'en party for the school children.

Music was provided by the Four Tones through the courtesy of the American Federation of Musicians, Local 215, and the musicians' transcription fund.

Awards for costumes were received by Mary Ann Quarantino, Robert Mergendahl, Kathleen Fiore, Thomas Kiely, Nelda Brewer, Richard Clausi, and Margaret Flanigan and Russell Kiely. Adults receiving awards were Margaret Fish, Terese Ferrendino and Rose Iocetti. Refreshments were served.

Americans Warned of Complacency in World Affairs by Mrs. Roosevelt in Speech at Bard

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Freeman Society Editor

The challenge that America must face today in her struggle to maintain the balance of world power, was stressed by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in a speech before the Social Studies Club at Bard College Monday.

"This is not the time for complacency or putting ourselves on the back," she warned.

"We must take the challenge, understand it and meet it. If we do not, I am not at all sure who is going to win," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

"We must realize that what is going on in the Soviet Union today, whether we like it or not, it is a going, living concern. We must try, in order to do a better 'selling' job on the world, to see things through the eyes of the Soviet people and stop thinking as citizens accustomed to American habits and ways."

Toured Russia

The purpose of Mrs. Roosevelt's visit to the college was to discuss her recent trip to Russia. That people were vitally interested in what Mrs. Roosevelt had to say was evidenced by the last minute switch to a larger auditorium to accommodate the capacity attendance.

In her address, Mrs. Roosevelt stated her purpose in visiting Russia was to see how the people lived. She recounted numerous humorous experiences about the method in which things are done in Russia and said, "Oh, they are really good at making promises for the next day. When the next day arrives you find that a substitute has been provided for what you want to do or see. It's all in the knowing how to get about and whom to see about it."

In her travels, Mrs. Roosevelt related how she traveled on Russia's commercial jet plane.

"They are proud," she said, "that theirs is the only country with a commercial plane run. Flights are informal, there is no fuss. They don't even bother to tell you to fasten your belts for landings. I thought it was pretty good on the whole."

Compulsory Education

In speaking about the educational system in Russia, Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out that not only is it compulsory, but that students who go on to higher studies are given an allowance for living expenses.

"The allowance for studying engineering and the sciences is double that provided for any other studies," she said, "and perhaps that might account for the fact that so many students become engineers."

All Republics in the Soviet Union are allowed to preserve their own cultures, according to Mrs. Roosevelt. Tashkent, which Mrs. Roosevelt visited, is a musical area. They have 6 colleges for music alone.

Mrs. Roosevelt further added that education in Russia begins at the age of two months when children of working mothers (and almost all work) are enrolled in state operated nurseries.

No Illiteracy

"One astounding fact about illiteracy in Russia," Mrs. Roosevelt said, "is that 40 years ago at the time of the revolution, only 10 per cent of the people could read and write."

"Today there is no illiteracy in all of Russia."

Mrs. Roosevelt further stated that there is hardly a young Russian who doesn't speak at least two languages besides his own.

Free Medical Care

"In Russia, you don't starve, you have to go to school, and you have to have medical care," Mrs. Roosevelt informed the assemblage.

She further stated that medical care is free and excellent. The Russians believe in and practice preventive medicine. A child, from the time he is born, must visit the doctor once every month for a check-up. Good health is stressed throughout the Soviet Union.

Mrs. Roosevelt also said that more than 50 per cent of the doctors are women.

Defeat of System

"I do not know but that the defeat of communism lies in this Russian system," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "But we must understand one thing," she said. "The Russian people have never been free and what they have today is more than they have ever had. To someone who has never tasted freedom, their system to them is a living concern."

"I do not believe that we should look for a revolution from within the Soviet Union. The story of the countries under the control of Russia is quite another story. But in Russia the people feel they have more than they have ever had in their entire history."

"In order to meet the challenge which faces us as a country, we will have to learn more discipline of ourselves and know more of what the challenges are."

"We must remember that the Russians are doing an excellent selling job on the entire world. We have to do better."

"We need leadership—need the willingness to think about 25 years from now—and if necessary make sacrifices for the future."

Red - Hungry Out Of UNFAO Group

ROME (AP) — Red-ruled Hungary today followed the Soviet Ukraine Republic and withdrew its application for membership in the U. N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

The United States had made clear before the current FAO general conference that it would oppose the membership bids of both countries.

U. S. opposition to Hungary was based on the contention the present regime is not a duly constituted government.

The United States reportedly viewed the Ukrainian application as a Soviet move to get into FAO without paying the larger share of operation costs which would have been assessed.

The Ukraine, first Soviet Union republic ever to ask admission into FAO, withdrew its application in a surprise move last Thursday on the eve of the conference.

Tip to Ulcer Sufferers

OMAHA (AP) — There are times when wasting time is not a waste of time.

That can be particularly true if you have an ulcer, Dr. Eric F. Wollaeger of the Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn., said yesterday.

Some people who so suffer should start doing what they consider to be a waste of time, he said, because then they wouldn't be wasting time at all. They would be helping the ulcer to heal.

But some people think they have to be producing something all the time and they, Dr. Wollaeger said, are expecting too much of themselves.

They don't know how to relax and they are the kind that get ulcers, he commented.

Rosendale

185 Guests Attend Auchmoedy Dinner

ROSENDALE — A testimonial dinner was given in honor of Mrs. Anna Auchmoedy of Rosendale at Sportsmen's Park Saturday evening, with 185 guests attending.

Mrs. Auchmoedy is retiring after 20 years of service as town clerk. Altogether, she has given 41 years in public service, having been with the post office in addition to her service as town clerk. She has planned now to retire from public service.

Guest speakers at the dinner included Dr. Eugene Galvin and Edward Huben. William Anderson, president of the Rosendale Republican Club, acted as master of ceremonies. The Invocation was given by the Rev. Cuylar Thayer and the Benediction by the Rev. Donald Reidy. Mrs. Mary Hill presented Mrs. Auchmoedy with a bracelet as a gift from her well-wishers.

Other highlights of the event included a poem, written especially for the guest of honor, read by Florence Relyea and a short skit dealing with activities at the town clerk's office, by Elsie Ingraham. Community singing was enjoyed, and the lyrics were re-written to honor the retiring guest of honor.

Halloween Party Given by Vol Auxiliary

A very successful Halloween party was held Thursday evening at the firehall, given by members of the Ladies Auxiliary of Rosendale Fire Company, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Harold Krom.

Mrs. Krom expressed her thanks to the ladies assisting her and to the Girl Scouts.

Over 150 attended the party. Prizes were awarded to James Mulligan, Jeffrey Joyce, Kathleen Brown, Fay Merine, LuAnne Doolittle and Karen Baker. Games were played and refreshments served.

Slate Card Party

The monthly card party sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Rosendale Fire Company has been scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 20. The regular meeting of the organization will take place Thursday evening, Nov. 21.

Hungarian Franz Liszt was the first composer to transpose a symphonic poem into a musical composition.

Higher Tolls Seen In Seaway Switch

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich.) says he is opposed to switching supervision of the St. Lawrence Seaway from the Army to the Commerce Department.

Such a move, he told reporters yesterday, would open the way to higher tolls than those now contemplated.

Potter contended that the Commerce Department would feel greater pressure for high tolls than the Army. "The traditional enemies of the seaway have more interest in the Commerce Department than the Army," he said.

GOV. GOODWIN J. KNIGHT

Belief Is Knight Will Change Mind, Seek Senate Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California conferred with President Eisenhower today for what may be a face-saving transfer into a 1958 race for the Senate.

Knight has been saying for some months he would not withdraw as a candidate for renomination despite the entry of Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) into the governorship contest. But he is now reported ready to change his mind.

In advance of his meeting with Eisenhower, Knight kept his own counsel about his future political plans.

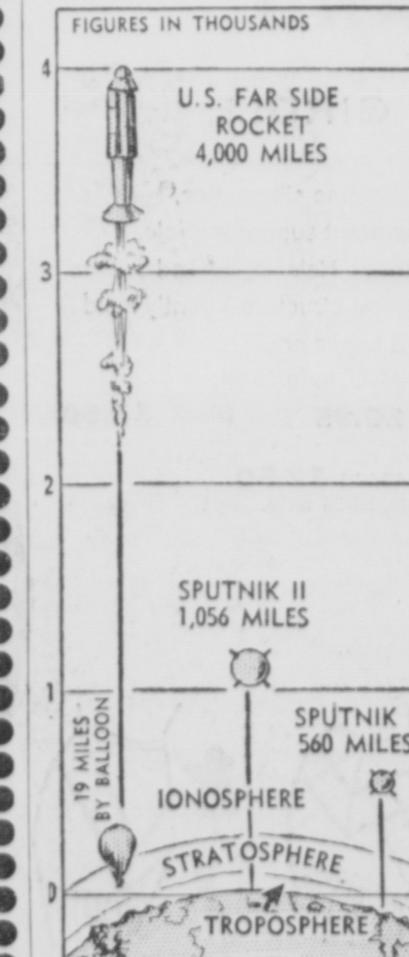

But there was general belief here the California governor would emerge from the White House to announce he has decided to seek Knowland's Senate seat. Knowland, the Senate's Republican leader, has said he will leave the Senate in January 1959.

Shot of Mercy

GALESBURG, Ill. (UPI)—Human officer Howard Knowles is a good shot and it's a good thing. He came to the rescue of a bird which had become entangled in a kite string high up in a tree. Officer Knowles shot at the tree limb, bringing down branch, bird and string.

Edith Cavell, martyr English nurse of World War I, was shot by a German firing squad. Her body later was removed to Norwich Cathedral in England.

U.S. VS. RUSSIA—Newschart shows the heights attained by Russia's Sputniks I and II, and the U.S. Far Side Rocket. The Far Side, fired by the Air Force, is shot straight up. No attempt is made to orbit it. Scientists say, however, that by turning it horizontally the rocket may be transformed into a satellite, like the Sputniks.

FIRST MEETING—Two of the nation's most distinguished citizens, Frank Lloyd Wright, left, and Carl Sandburg, stop for a chat after appearing together on a Chicago television program. It was the first time that world-famous architect Wright, and equally famed poet Sandburg had ever met. They discussed, appropriately enough, Chicago architecture.

At present the H-34 is undergoing tests at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Pitzele Resigns Magazine Post

NEW YORK (AP)—Merlyn S. Pitzele, who told Senate rackets probbers last week that he had collected $15,000 from the Teamsters Union while he headed the New York State Mediation Board, has resigned from the staff of Business Week magazine.

Pitzele was campaign labor adviser to President Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956.

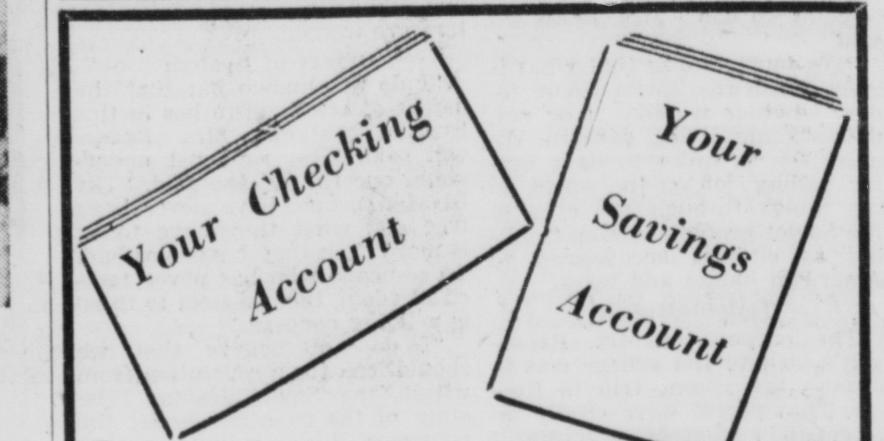

The 46-year-old labor economist's resignation was announced yesterday, three days after he told Senate investigators in Washington that he had collected $15,000 from the Teamsters in a three-year period.

Pitzele had held the rank of senior editor on the staff of Business Week. He also had been chief consultant on labor books published by McGraw-Hill.

The publishing company, which also prints Business Week, said yesterday in a one-sentence statement:

"Merlyn S. Pitzele has today resigned from the staff of Business Week and has severed all connections with the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. Inc."

Doubt Russians

night his latest calculations put the second satellite in an orbit ranging from 1,057 miles from earth at its farthest point to 103 miles at its closest.

When Sputnik I was launched more than a month ago, its orbit carried it to within 170 miles of the earth and as far out as 560 miles. But these distances have decreased somewhat since.

The government astronomer said that Sputnik II's orbit brings it closer to the earth, it is likely the newer satellite will fall sooner than Sputnik I will drop earthward about the end of January.

The Russian announcement about new instruments and sources of power for Sputnik II came in a Moscow Radio broadcast last night.

The broadcast quoted a person identified only as "academician Dikushin" as saying:

"A multi-stage carrier rocket a new design with foolproof precision controls had to be used for putting the satellite into its computed orbit."

The increase in the satellite's size to provide for a larger number of measuring the telemetering instruments, and even for an animal passenger, necessitated the development of improved new instruments and sources of power."

Before the Moscow broadcast, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.) said in Seattle the size of the second Russian satellite and the distance it reached "gives us reason to suspect the Soviets may have achieved nuclear rocket propulsion ahead of us."

New Fuel Doubted

In Cambridge, Mass., two rocket experts said they doubt the Russians used any new type fuel to launch Sputnik II.

Frederick C. Durant III, a former president of the American Rocket Society, said that in his opinion the Russian launching system is based on "conventional propellants such as liquid oxygen and kerosene." But Durant said he thinks the Russians have developed large rocket engines.

While not ruling out entirely the possibility that a new fuel had been developed, Durant said such a propellant would not have been necessary to get the new satellite aloft.

Dr. H. Guyford Stever, associate dean of the engineering school at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, also voiced skepticism about any new Russian super fuel. However, he said it is possible the Russians are using batteries deriving energy from the sun's rays to power the satellite's instruments. This, he said, "would be quite an achievement."

Durant theorized the Russians "can put a 50-pound satellite on the moon whenever they want to" and that "they could even put one around the moon and have it return." He said "I expect them to do both of these things within a year."

Sees Cause for Alarm

"We in this country have considerable cause for alarm," Durant said.

In Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Walter Dornberger, one of Germany's top rocket experts in World War II, said that if the Russians can send aloft a 1,000-pound satellite with a dog inside they can put up another similar satellite with a television camera inside. From a military standpoint, he said, that would be a "beautiful reconnaissance device."

Dornberger, now a consultant to the Bell Aircraft Corp., said the launching of Sputnik II proves to him that Russia is within two years of being able to launch a massive attack on this country with intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Arms Talks . . .

hope the Soviet Union would "re-consider its position before it shoulders the responsibility of breaking off disarmament negotiations."

British Minister of State Allan Noble called the Soviet move a "discouraging development." Wallace Nesbitt of Canada said his government would be "shocked and disappointed at this ultimate."

WALLKILL NEWS

Former Resident Dies At Vassar Hospital

WALLKILL—Word has been received here that Mrs. James G. Rymph, 71, a retired school teacher who was a founder of the Dutchess County Retired Teachers' Association died last Tuesday at Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie.

Mrs. Rymph, the former Miss Ethel Palen, was well known in Wallkill. She was born in Rosendale, Jan. 20, 1886 the daughter of the late James A. and Mary Morey Palen. She went to the Town of Clinton to reside 43 years ago, going there from Wallkill. She was educated in the Rosendale schools and was graduated from the New Poughkeepsie Normal School in 1906.

Prior to her retirement, Mrs. Rymph had taught a special class in Elsworth School in Poughkeepsie and also had taught in schools in Hyde Park on this district meeting Friday.

Reformed Church Notes

Thursday evening 7:30 p. m., choir rehearsal at the church; 8:15 p. m., vestry meeting will be held at the home of Russell Ham-esfahar. The dinner will be served at 7:15 p. m., youth fellowship will meet at the church for a hayride. If this is not available, they will go roller skating instead.

Survivors have been known as her husband to whom she was married in Wallkill July 9, 1912; a daughter, Mrs. Vincent Brands of Poughkeepsie; and two granddaughters, Mary Elizabeth and James Vincent Brands.

Funeral services were held last Friday at Hyde Park.

Parents Club Meeting Will Discuss Building

A panel discussion on the building program now being planned in Wallkill Central School District will be the highlight of the evening meeting of the Wallkill Parents Club Thursday at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium. Mrs. Raymond Prescott will be conducting the business.

Participating on the panel will be representatives of the parents clubs, the educational advisory committee, board of education, faculty, and the architectural firm of Rolf Dreyer.

Any questions may be sent to Walter Kleeman or Robert J. Robinson, co-chairmen of the meeting, or they may be asked from the floor Thursday evening.

Approval Likely

tumbled more than one broad-based cabinet in the past.

Mollet, Pinay Refuse

At their regular meeting Friday, the members of the Wallkill Woman's Club will hear the former president of New York State Federation of Woman's Clubs, Mrs. Rowland Davis of Yonkers. In addition Mrs. Davis is a former president of the Crestwood Woman's Club, a former president of Cornell Club of Westchester.

Presently she is a parliamentarian of New York State Federation of Woman's Clubs and a charter member and a chairman of Woman's Division and Development Committee of American Foundation of Religion and Psychiatry. She is also the president of the community events at John Wanamaker's, Yonkers.

At this particular event, Mrs. Davis will choose as her topic, "My Work With Dr. Norman Vincent Peale."

field, he already has announced he will ask Congress next year to authorize sharing of this country's nuclear secrets with Great Britain and other friendly nations.

He also plans a meeting early in December with just the Republican leaders of Congress to talk over the administration's domestic legislative program.

Ordinarily those two conferences with the leaders of Congress are not until the latter part of December or very early in January.

Outlooks Bleak

Cabinet discussion of spending plans for the fiscal year starting next July 1 commences with the outlooks comparatively bleak for holding expenditures to the 70 billion dollar target set up last September by Budget Director Percival Brundage.

Informed government and congressional fiscal experts predicted during the weekend that target will be overshot by at least two billion dollars to equal the current year's 72 billion dollar spending estimate.

Bingo, Convention

year record, voted on the various proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Actually many more probably turned out for the election and voted only on the local contests, since many voters pass up the referenda line on the machines.

Past performance indicated that about five million of this year's registered voters would cast their ballots.

GOP in Control

Republicans went into the local elections in control of 28 of the city administrations at stake. Democrats held 18 and non-partisans five.

The state GOP was especially hopeful of overturning Democratic administrations in Buffalo and Binghamton. Democrats saw their best chances of seizing control from the Republicans in Dunkirk, North Tonawanda and Ogdensburg.

The bingo proposal appeared as No. 3 in a series of six proposed amendments to the state constitution. The convention issue was posed as question No. 1, preceding the six amendments.

Most top Republicans, including former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, opposed holding a convention, arguing that the constitution does not need a major overhaul.

Unfair Says Democrats

Democrats, headed by Gov. Harriman, argued that the current plan of legislative reapportionment gave upstate rural areas—Republican territory—an unfair advantage over urban and suburban sectors.

Republican foes of the convention proposal pinned their hopes on the vote-heavy, 57-county area outside New York City. More than four million are registered in the area.

If the voters approve, convention delegates will be elected from rival political slates next year and the convention held in 1959.

The bingo amendment proposed to legalize the game on a local-option basis. Communities would have to conduct another local referendum before bingo actually could be played.

Veterans and volunteer firemen's organization, which along with churches and other non-profit groups—would be allowed to operate the games, plugged for a "Yes" vote. Catholic churches did not enter directly into the debate.

Of the other proposed amendments, No. 1 was regarded as the most significant. It proposed a 250-million-dollar bond issue for state university expansion.

Modena

MODENA—Special meetings of Modena Rod and Gun Club members were conducted during the past weeks. A report will be given at a meeting Friday at 8 p. m. at the Club trailer, north of Modena.

A meeting of the Plattekill Town Building is scheduled for Wednesday evening, Nov. 13, in the Town Building in Modena.

Local members of the Ulster County Home Demonstration Service, are making reservations for the annual dinner-meeting Thursday evening, Nov. 14, at New Hyde Reform Church Hall.

The dinner will be served at 7 p. m., followed by a brief business meeting. Reports of the various departments will be given and the annual election of officers conducted.

A lesson on making winter bouquets will be repeated at a future meeting of Modena unit. The lesson was given to 30-local leaders of county units, at Modena, recently.

Lester A. Wager Sr. and Lester A. Wager Jr. have had wells drilled on their property north of Modena during the past week.

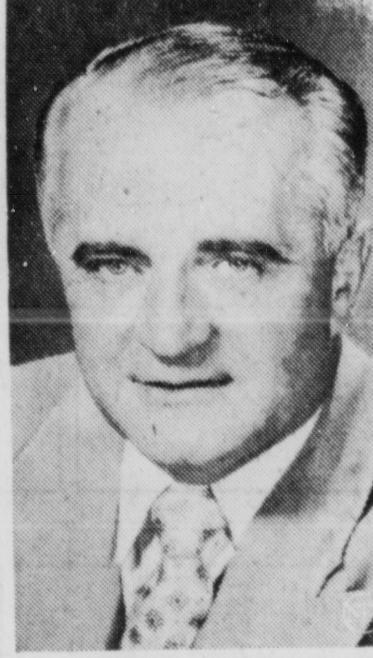

While there, the Wagers visited their newly built summer camp, on the lake frontage near Goodenough Mountain.

Included in the all-girl degree team of the Plattekill Grange, conferring the first and second degrees of initiation on a class of candidates joining the Clinton Grange, are Arlene Bernard and Margery Van Aken, of this locality.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Van Aken are members of the committee of Plattekill Grangers serving a turkey supper and conducting a dance at the Plattekill Grange Hall Saturday evening, Nov. 16.

Degree team programs and instructions are prepared by Mrs. Burton R. Ward, Mrs. Burton Van Aken, Mrs. Nathaniel Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Lozier.

Frederick M. Mance, of Pine Bush, Republican county chairman, will be remembered as a former resident of Modena. He, his brother David, and parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mance lived in the house now owned and occupied by the Louis Pag-

Woodstock Author Writes Handbook For New Draftees

Alf Evers, popular author who lives at Lewis Hollow, Woodstock, has written an important new handbook-guide to the draft, which J. B. Lippincott Company has just published.

Entitled "Selective Service," it is at present the only complete and authoritative handbook for young men facing service in the armed forces.

Evers spent many months carefully researching the material for "Selective Service," resulting in an extraordinary amount of detailed information for teenagers who face their 18th birthday. Some of the data included is: registration, classification, questionnaire, volunteers, reserves, mental and physical exams, induction, objectives, and many other aspects of the draft.

Evers is a versatile and highly productive author, as well as a man with a wide range of interests. Among the many books he has written are stories for young children, including the beautiful "Three Kings of Saba." Brought up on a farm, where he learned "old-fashioned" skills like threshing and mowing, he attended Hamilton College in Clinton, and then the Art Students League in New York City.

Evers lives with his 17-year-old son on a farm high on a mountainside. In addition to his writing, Evers enjoys drawing, folklore, and New York State history. He also grows apples, pears, grapes and other fruits, and spends much time hiking and camping with his son.

Seneca Charge Flood Project Is Violation

CINCINNATI (P)—The U. S. government is no Indian-giver and intends to prove it—to the Seneca Indian nation of New York State.

The U. S. Army division engineers yesterday reported signing a contract with Tippetts-Abbett-McCarthy-Stratton, a New York engineering firm to study the merits of two proposed flood control plans that may affect Seneca land held under treaty since 1794.

Army engineers already have been authorized to proceed with the Allegheny reservoir project near Kinzua, Pa.

But the Senecas say the project would put under water nearly one-third of their 30,000 acres along the river north of the New York state line. And this would violate their treaty, they say.

The Senecas have proposed diverting the Allegheny floodwater instead through the Conewango Valley in a canal starting near Steamburg, N. Y., in order to keep their lands dry.

Onteora-Rondout Valley Clash Heads Schoolboy Grid Slate

UCAL Title Apt
To Be Decided
In Boiceville Tilt
Kingston Idle Until
Nov. 16 With Pleasant

Area scholastic teams are primed for their next-to-last big afternoon of football activity for the season Saturday.

Barring last minute postponements, eight games are on tap involving gridders from this section. Five of them are league engagements.

Conspicuous by its absence will be Kingston High, the top all-winning eleven hereabouts, which will be idle. The Maroon was slated to meet Beacon Saturday when its original schedule was drawn up but the game was moved ahead one week at the request of the Dutchess County school. Then the flu bug struck the locals, and after one postponement, the tilt was dropped altogether. KHS's next outing is Nov. 16 against Mont Pleasant at Schenectady Stadium.

Saturday's Headlining

Headlining Saturday's program is the Rondout Valley-Ontoira clash at Boiceville. The UCAL championship may well be riding on this one.

Undefeated Onteora (5-0 overall) is the undisputed leader at the moment with three triumphs and needs only to trim Rondout to capture the title. Rondout and New Paltz, the contenders, clashed today. A Rondout victory meant a tie for first place and elimination for the Huguenots. In the other hand, a New Paltz win, coupled with a Rondout victory Saturday, would toss the race into a three-way tie for the title.

Full DCSL Slate

A full slate of three games is scheduled for the DCSL. Topping the menu will be Arlington-Highland at New Paltz. This is a makeup game from a couple of weekends back and always is a bitter battle between traditional rivals. The Highlanders pace the circuit with a spotless 3-0 record while the Dutchess County Maroons are right in the thick of the scramble at 2-1.

Rounding out the DCSL schedule is Saugerties at Wappingers Falls and Beacon at Roosevelt; the latter another makeup affair. The Sawyers are in the midst of a four-game losing streak, three coming in the loop, and are itching to get back on the winning trail.

Wappingers, 2-0 and a half game behind the leader, a victory over Saugerties coupled with a Highland setback would give the Fallsmen undisputed possession of first place.

FDR Faces Beacon

Up-and-coming Roosevelt will be shooting for its fourth straight win against winless Beacon. Included in its three successes are two circuit triumphs as against two defeats. The Beaconites, who are the defending champions, are locked in the cellar with Saugerties and have dropped four games altogether.

The final loop attraction will be Poughkeepsie at Newburgh in the DUSO. The Pioneers are 2-1 and can assure themselves of no worse than a tie for second by winning. NFA is 0-1 and needs the win to escape skidding into the basement with Middletown.

As for the Middies, they have added a game with Tappan Zee of Piermont to their schedule and will play it on Saturday at the mid-city. Middletown is 1-2-1 overall and wants the verdict to get on an even footing. The Flying Dutchmen rank third in the Rockland County PSAL.

Other non-loop tussles include Port Jervis (2-2-1) at Vincennes Institute (6-0) and NYMA (1-3-1) at Sleepy Hollow (Tarrytown).

KWBA Sets Nov. 30 Opening Date for 17th Annual Tourney

Championship Matches Slated At New Paltz

Kingston Woman's Bowling Association has the weekends of Nov. 30-Dec. 1 and Dec. 7-8 as dates for its 17th annual championships at the New Paltz bowling alleys.

The tournament will be a handicap affair in three divisions. The breakdown on averages as announced by Mrs. John Glennon, secretary, follow:

Class A teams—700 and up; Class B—600 to 699; Class C—599 and under; Individuals: Class A, 145 and up; Class B—133 to 144; Class C—124 and under. The doubles are: Class A, 290 and up; Class B—250 to 289; and Class C—249 and under.

Highest league average as of the close of 1956-57 season will be the official tournament average. New bowlers will be rated on the basis of 18 games. If a new bowler has not rolled 18 games, the secretary of the KWBA will fix an average.

No Single Entries

Bowlers must enter singles, when bowling in doubles. The first team score will count toward the all-events and only one entry is permitted in singles and doubles.

A bowler may enter as many team events, as a regular member or substitute, as the number of leagues in which she bowls.

In case of a tie (gross pinnage), place money shall be evenly divided except in case of a first-place tie, when the tie will be rolled off as soon as possible.

Closing date for entries is Nov. 20 midnight. Entry blanks are available at all KWBA establishments.

Entries should be mailed to Mrs. John Glennon, 62 Fair Street, Kingston.

The tournament rules committee consists of June Van Kleek, chairman; Virginia Lillberg and Ethel Howard.

Harry's Angels were conquered for the first time this season on the YMCA hardwoods last night, when Buddy Smith and Wimpy's No. 1 collaborated for a thrilling 74-72 decision in the "A" League.

The Angels had previously forfeited a game when the Asian flu bedded several members of the team.

The Wimpy's triumph enabled them to take a one-game lead, with 5 wins and a loss to the Angels' 4 and 2 record.

Hits Eleven Foul

Smith, who paced Wimpy's with 23 points, went 11 for 11 from the free throw line. Bill DuBois rimmed 14 points, Jack Houghtaling hit 16 for the winners. Andy Juhl, the No. 2 scorer in the circuit, meshed 30 points for the Angels. Lloyd Tice (15) and Lafayette Holstaein (14) also starred for the losers.

Wimpy's led 17-9 at the quarter and 33-27 at halftime. The Angels bounced back with a strong third period (25 points) and forged ahead, 52-51, at one point, only to have Wimpy's take charge in the fourth quarter.

Horse Show Opens Run At Garden in New York

NEW YORK (AP)—With no fewer than seven international jumping teams on hand, the National Horse Show opened its 69th edition today at Madison Square Garden.

When it's all over in eight days, there will be a champion decided on a point basis, which is something new in this venerable event. Heretofore, the international teams simply tried to win each event as it came up.

Now, the National has decided that the spectators should get a better idea of how things are going. So points will be awarded in every test. Some will be for the individual and some for the team. They will vary, according to the difficulty of the event.

Added Incentive

As an added incentive, two new trophies have been donated, one for the individual riding and another for the team that does the best in the international jumping.

Argentina is on hand for the first time and is represented by a husband-wife team. The captain is Pedro Oscar Mayorga. His wife, Elena, is one of his riders.

For the first time since 1953, the British have a team. Two girls, Pat Smythe—who was here in '53 and created a fine impression—and Dawn Palethorpe, for two-thirds of the team. Ted Williams (no relation) is the third rider.

Then there is the U. S., headed by Bill Steinakrause; the Mexicans headed by Gen. Humberto Mariles, an all-time favorite with the Garden crowds; and Canada, Ireland and Chile.

Although it won't be part of the competition, the feature exhibition will be the most interesting in many a year. Maj. Henri St. Cyr, Sweden's Olympic dressage champion in both 1952 and 1956, will perform at every session.

Dressage Explained

Dressage is the art of directing a horse by "invisible" means. The rider's orders are not visible to the naked eye. It requires virtually perfect coordination between horse and rider and is one of the most ancient, and probably lost arts of horsemanship.

A dozen of last year's winners will be back for another try. The most popular is Riviera Wonder, the open jumper winner the past two years. Owned by Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Mann of Port Washington, N. Y., Wonder will return with the trophy if he wins again this year.

Both the working hunter and conformation hunter champions—Bronze Wing and Silverminer, respectively—are back.

Seven Regulars Out at Colgate

HAMILTON (AP)—The Colgate camp is somewhat in disarray with seven football regulars on the sidelines.

The injured: Captain Ralph Antone, a tackle; guards Bill Usinger and Bob Conklin; tackle Bill Morog; end Bob Nastanovich; halfback Walt Betts, and fullback Don Zimmerman.

They were hurt Saturday in Army's 53-7 massacre of the Red Raiders.

Coach Fred Rice said yesterday he expected all but Antone and Conklin would return to practice by Wednesday and be able to play in the Bucknell game next Saturday.

Malzone Named Best Sophomore In Junior Circuit

NEW YORK (AP)—Frank Malzone of the Boston Red Sox, a last-minute ineligible candidate for 1957 American League Rookie-of-the-Year honors, was an overwhelming selection today as the best sophomore in the A. L.

The slugging third baseman earned the league's sophomore award by a landslide in the annual Associated Press poll of members of the Baseball Writers Assn. of America. Malzone was named on 166 of the 182 ballots cast.

Shortstop Luis Aparicio of the Chicago White Sox, rookie-of-the-year in 1956, was second with 14 votes. Outfielders Tim Froncina of Baltimore and Rocky Colavito of Cleveland each received one vote.

Figured as Rookie

For most of the 1957 season Malzone had been touted as being eligible for rookie laurels. He had started the 1956 campaign with Boston, but after hitting .165 in 27 games the Red Sox sent him to San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league in early June.

Since Malzone had to be bat 103 times officially, there was a controversy over whether he had qualified as a rookie in 1957.

The Baseball Rules Committee, composed of members of the Baseball Writers Assn., declared Malzone ineligible in September. The committee met later during the World Series and voted to ban a player from consideration for the rookie award in his first full season if he had more than 75 at bats in any previous season in the majors.

Thus Malzone found himself ineligible as a rookie and classified as a sophomore. As it turned out, the 27-year-old native of the sidewalks of New York clearly outdistanced his rivals as the league's most impressive second-year player.

The stocky righthanded batter, who began in the Boston chain in 1948, gave an indication of what was to come when he went to the Seals for further seasoning. He hit .296 with San Francisco and received another chance with the Red Sox in spring training in 1957.

Fills Gap

This time Malzone stuck with the Red Sox and filled the glaring third base gap in the Boston infield. Finding the short left field wall at Fenway Park an inviting target, he hit for both average and distance.

After hovering above .300 for awhile, Malzone finished with a .292 batting average. The Oneonta, N. Y., resident wound up in a three-way tie for third in runs batted in with 103, was second in hits with 185 and was third in doubles with 31.

His 15 home runs were the most he has ever hit in a season. Casey Stengel was so enchanted at Malzone's performance by mid-season that the Yankee manager picked him to play in the All-Star Game.

In capturing the sophomore accolade, Malzone succeeded pitcher Herb Score of Cleveland, the 1956 choice. Cincinnati's Frank Robinson was named the National League's outstanding sophomore last week.

First place Cementon kept pace with the contenders in Sauer's Dartball League Monday night by defeating Trinity 2 to 1 and holding that position for the third straight week.

Service Center B's held the second spot with a 2 to 1 win over the cellar occupants, Mt. Marion. Ruby's win over Quarryville by 2 to 1 moved them into third place over Centerville who lost two games to Cedar Grove. Katsbaan in contention since the start of the season dropped to a seventh place tie as a result of a 3 to 0 shutout by Centerville Vols.

Other scores: West Camp 2, Veteran 1; Glasco Fire Co. 2, Service Center A's 1.
